OVERVIEW & OBJECTIVES

Attendees will participate in an in-depth dissection of the head, neck, and airway over a two-day period. Working in two-member teams, each participant will dissect half of a cadaver head. The head, neck, and airway will be dissected to demonstrate the relationship of structures to orofacial pain conditions including TMD and sleep breathing disorders. The group will focus on osteology, the oral cavity, the nasal cavity, the digastric triangle, and the temporomandibular joint.

ABOUT THE PRESENTERS

Ronald C. Auvenshine, DDS, PhD, Diplomate ABOP earned his DDS from Emory University School of Dentistry and PhD in Human Anatomy from LSU Medical School. Dr. Auvenshine is Founder & Director of the Orofacial Pain Clinic at DeBakey V.A.
